

Sr. Product Designer

San Francisco Bay Area

As a Senior Product Designer, you will drive the user experience vision and execution so hosts can efficiently run their businesses through highly usable tools and settings. Some of the product surfaces you might work on include messages, photos, pricing recommendations, and dashboard visualizations. You'll work with other accomplished designers, UX researchers, product managers, engineers, and data analysts who are equally passionate about shipping outstanding experiences that solve challenging problems in elegant ways. You'll report to our Host team Product Design Director.

About the position

What you'll do

- Work with PMs, engineers, and other disciplines to solve interesting problems such as providing an excellent onboarding experience for new hosts and empowering seasoned hosts to scale their businesses
- Own the user experience for your projects end-to-end, including contributing to product strategy, running design workshops, and creating visions
- Create, and refine IA, flows, prototypes, and high-fidelity visuals across iOS, Android, and Web
- Work cross-functionally to implement your designs
- Be a bar-raiser by collaborating with our design systems team and contributing to our shared design libraries

About you

- Robust UX skills with the ability to design and ship high-quality product experiences

- Experience in line with a senior role

- Examples of the design work you're most proud of, with stories of how your designs made an impact

- Good judgment and self-direction

- Humble, low-ego teammates focused on shipping what's best for our customers, even if it's not your design

Why you'll love being a part of our team

---

- We're pioneering, challenging the status quo, and always striving to try new things without fear of failure
- We're efficient, letting data drive our decisions and prioritizing our work based on impact
- We're supportive, always striving to connect, collaborate, and lift each other up
- We're down-to-earth, leading confidently without arrogance, and maintaining humility in our work, our culture, and our product
- We are a high-growth company with strong financial performance and plentiful opportunities for career growth
- We are committed to personal growth and provide every team member an annual budget of $2,000 USD to invest in professional development
